

Apply for the MedTech Accelerator® programme today!

01 March 2023, 11:52

Ludwig De Locht

Are you a MedTech entrepreneur looking to take your idea to the next level? If so, the MedTech Accelerator® 2023 is the perfect opportunity for you! Applications are open until 10 March 10 2023.

At MedTech Accelerator®, you will receive the help you need to navigate the complexities of the healthtech sector for six months, from April to October. The programme is designed to challenge you on important matters, such as customer development, business viability, prototyping and product validation, CE marking and health economics, and company governance.

The programme includes various formats to guide you on your journey, including collective workshops, tailor-made business and technical coaching, presentations in front of a panel of experts, networking sessions with your peers and alumni, and prequalified meetings with key stakeholders. Sirris is partnering up with lifetech.brussels for this programme and will provide the experts and guidance to coach you with your technological challenges, with the support of Innoviris.

For whom?

The programme targets MedTech companies established in Brussels, and whose solutions lie between a CRL2-TRL2 and CRL4-TRL4. Additionally, startups about to be created or less than five years old are encouraged to apply.

Don't miss this incredible opportunity to take your MedTech idea to the next level! Check out the lifetech.brussels website for more information and apply today!

Authors

Ludwig De Locht